

JONNY - BIOGRAPHY

Jonny began his full military career with the Parachute Regiment. His experience and training through various operational tours led to his subsequent selection to the 22nd Special Air Service (S.A.S). During his operational service for the regiment, Jonny was deployed, amongst others, to numerous tours of the middle east, throughout which his diligent, dedicated and adaptable leadership skills were an essential part of his success. Working within intra, inter and multidisciplinary teams across different military, national, international and governmental agencies demanded excellent communication and organisational skills. His ongoing professional development to enhance his operative profile included patrol medic, tactical weapons training, close quarter combat and effective delivery of tactical, logistical and operational information. Jonny's unique operational experiences and success led to his subsequent requisitions to provide bespoke course for counter terrorist training both within the SAS and for external governmental departments. Since retiring from special forces after a full and distinguished service, Jonny has deployed his leadership, communication and organisational skills from the experience of working with national, international, civil, governmental and military organisations to enhance his subsequent civilian roles where he has used his expertise to provide operational and logistical management for commercial companies
